

A note from your teacher!

Ready Rosie

You have a story to tell, and your child wants to hear it!

There is no better way to capture your child's attention than to say, "Have I told you the story about...?" Children love to hear stories about what they were like when they were younger. They're also curious to know your memories from when you were their age. Storytelling is one of the most powerful means of communication, and it has the power to bring lots of laughter and joy in your home!

Watch the video with your child. If you don't have access to view videos, please read the description below!		Do the activity and mark "We did it!"	Reflect and share: How did it go? What did you learn?
	Tips for storytelling: Story ideas Need help coming up with stories about your family? Think about five family members or close friends from your childhood that you wish your children could know. Tell a special memory about each one of those five people and, before you know it, you're a storyteller!	<input type="checkbox"/> We Did it!
	Story of Your Name Have you ever shared the story behind your child's name? What about your own name? Take some time to share these stories and build your child's identity and understanding of family history.	<input type="checkbox"/> We Did it!
	Remember the Story Show your child a picture of a special memory. Prompt your child to tell the story: What happened at the beginning? The middle? The end? What makes it such a special memory?	<input type="checkbox"/> We Did it!
